The Scottish Railway Preservation Society exists to educate the general public in the history of railways in Scotland. The Society is a Charity and is largely run by volunteers with a small permanent staff.

We are seeking a Marketing and Communications Manager, who will play the leading role in sustaining and developing growth. Growth is seen in terms not only of footfall on our trains and in our Museum but also of membership and our standing in the community and the heritage movement.

The successful applicant will be familiar with marketing challenges and techniques, including social media. They will be able to work with local and national government bodies and will be happy promoting the Society to a wide range of audiences. With an ability to think strategically to align events with overall business and brand objectives, the postholder will be able to lead customer service and work as part of a senior management team.

In return, you will work in a unique setting where no two days are the same. You will be supported by the Business Development Committee and a wider pool of volunteers who help deliver a range of special events and ongoing customer service to our visitors.
