

JOB TITLE	Marketing & Communications Manager
SALARY	£35,395pa
HOURS	37 hours per week
EMPLOYER	Scottish Railway Preservation Society
REPORTING TO	Business Development Committee Chair
LOCATION	Bo'ness / Hybrid

AIM/ PURPOSE OF ROLE:

The role of the Marketing & Communications Manager is pivotal in ensuring effective communications internally and externally, and supports the financial viability of the society's commercial activities across SRPS activities.

Key responsibilities include developing content and marketing collateral, managing communications across multiple channels (social media, email, radio, TV etc.), building and nurturing stakeholder relationships (internal and external), analysing campaign performance, and ensuring all activities align with SRPS charitable standards.

Developing and delivering marketing campaigns and communication plans, managing social media and digital presence and analysing event effectiveness to provide recommendations for improvements.

The Marketing & Communications Manager will be a leading figure in building and maintaining relationships and partnerships within the wider tourism, community and heritage community and their respective stakeholders.

The postholder will be responsible for strategic planning, developing and co-ordinating of marketing campaigns and Events that help the society increase brand awareness, engage new and existing customers on digital platforms and social media, and attract new customers and members. They will also develop promotional materials that help bolster the society's image and reputation and ensuring all activities align with SRPS charitable objectives.

Analysing market trends and visitor feedback, the postholder will support the Board of Trustees in setting policy direction and delivering on its strategic objectives in relevant areas.

MAIN TASKS/ PRINCIPAL ACCOUNTABILITIES:

- Lead the development and delivery of multi-channel SRPS's Marketing Strategy, to promote the railway services, museum and other Society activities as required to attract visitors, increase passenger numbers and encourage secondary spend. This includes print and social media as well as websites, radio, television and film.
- Supervise the development, in conjunction with internal stakeholders, of communications materials like newsletters, emails, press releases, proposals, and similar including writing, editing and proofreading marketing content.
- Manage the society's online presence including websites and social media platforms, and monitor audience engagement to protect the brand.
- Control and co-ordinate all communication by all means.
- Control and co-ordinate contracts with film-makers, broadcasters and publishers.
- Plan, and coordinate special events, themed train rides, webinars and podcasts in conjunction with volunteers to attract visitors and enhance community engagement, ensuring quality standards are set.
- Orchestrate all aspects of events, from product launches and conferences to internal meetings and trade shows.
- Build and maintain relationships with key and potential stakeholders, including national and local authorities, heritage organisations, tourism partners and local businesses and community organisations.
- Co-ordinate representation at events and organisations to promote as appropriate the interests of SRPS, Bo'ness and Kinneil Railway, Museum of Scottish Railways and SRPS Railtours.
- Identify partnership opportunities with influencers, affiliates, transport operators and other businesses to increase engagement and SRPS's social shares
- Monitor event and campaign success, tracking key metrics and using insights and market research to make recommendations for future activities
- Contribute to the long-term strategic planning of the railway, identifying opportunities for growth and development.
- Oversee customer service initiatives to ensure a high-quality experience for all visitors, ensuring that commercial activities align with the overall aims of the society
- Development of interested volunteers by transferring skills and knowledge.
- Other duties that are commensurate with the status of the post and as agreed with the line manager

PERSON SPECIFICATION

Essential

- Relevant qualification e.g. Marketing, business management or customers service OR significant levels of experience in this field
- Good general level of education
- Experience of:-
 - developing engaging content and innovative communications approaches
 - co-ordinating and managing commercially driven projects and events to meet performance targets
 - working with internal and external stakeholders to develop commercial opportunities
 - using general MS Office computer packages and digital marketing tools
 - managing competing demands and deadlines
- Ability to think strategically to align events with overall business and brand objectives
- Knowledge of customer service best practices
- Appreciation of the challenges and opportunities of volunteer organisations.
- Awareness of the tourism sector
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Able to work on own initiative and as part of a senior management team
- Able to demonstrate a can-do attitude with a willingness to go the extra mile.
- Acceptance of a commitment to SRPS's mission statement, aims and values, and its policies
- Excellent interpersonal and organisational skills
- Excellent attention to detail

Desirable

- Experience of working within a Tourism and/or Volunteer-led heritage environment
- Experience of monitoring budgets and statistical trends
- Experience working in a customer service role or other customer-facing activities